

ALLERGIES AND ENERGY

Unlike conventional allergy drugs that ultimately make the problem worse, energetic medicine can change the way your dog's body reacts to allergens.

The future of medicine is moving, in many ways, towards a Star Trek franchise. With this scenario, when you take your dog Marvel in for his yearly exam, he's put on a bed where his body's parameters are recorded and evaluated. The plasma screen on the chamber's base shows a full body picture, along with everything that is happening in his furry body. One micro-drop of blood is all that's needed for his blood tests. Star Trek medicine enters the realm of physics, with what we can call energy medicine.

In truth, powerfully effective energy medicine is being used successfully to treat and often cure chronic disease where conventional tactics have failed. Homeopathy, acupuncture and allergy elimination techniques are all energy medicine. These holistic modalities have left the realm of biology and chemistry and entered the world of physics. In truth, acupuncture is over 6,000 years old; the people and pets of this planet have been healed by physics for over six millennia.

DEFINING ENERGY MEDICINE

The dictionary definitions of physics is the study of matter, energy and the interaction between them. Quantum theory is the basis of modern physics that explains the behavior of matter and energy on the subatomic level. With this type of healing, energy is used to correct the matter, and matter is what makes up a body.

Acupuncture works with energy meridians in the body to open and balance the channels for healing. It takes the inherent energy, or life force, of the patient, which, when balanced and opened, flows freely – within and throughout the body – to heal and regenerate.

Energetic holistic therapies, such as acupuncture, homeopathy and allergy elimination, teach the body to heal, oftentimes very quickly and effectively.

Let's take a look at the response of a patient to a perfectly prescribed homeopathic remedy. We'll use the example of a small child with a sudden onset of a high fever, flushed cheeks and dilated pupils. When the child is given the correct remedy, homeopathic Belladonna, all the symptoms could easily resolve within five to 30 minutes. Yet, all the other children with the same illness but who didn't get this remedy could be sick for over a week.

How could this response be so rapid? I believe it's because the DNA is given impeccable, flawless advice from the homeopathic preparation on how to heal – and the DNA runs with it.

TELLING THE DNA WHAT TO DO

Imagine you're having a personal problem. You talk to dozens of your friends and they all give advice. None of it seems to work.

Deva Khalsa VMD CVH FBIH has been practicing as a holistic veterinarian since graduating from the University of Pennsylvania in 1981. She is also the founder of Deserving Pets, designing Canine Everyday Essentials, a complete, balanced microencapsulated supplement. Dr Khalsa has developed cutting edge treatments for allergies and cancer and is proud to announce the release of her latest book, "The Allergic Dog, Holistic Solutions to End the Allergy Epidemic in Our Dogs and Cats." Her site allergyelimination4pets.com explains allergies in detail.

Then, one friend gives you spot-on advice because she had the same problem. A light bulb clicks on in your head and you follow the advice. Problem solved. In the same way, the correct homeopathic remedy gives the body's DNA the right advice about the energetic changes that need to occur in the body for it to heal. It seems miraculous, really. But it's all working in the realm of Quantum physics – and in that arena it's just business as usual.

In fact, DNA is a receiver and transmitter of frequencies. That's more than 90 percent of DNA's function. Just take a look at its double helix structure. DNA is actually an antenna, reaching out within the realm of Quantum theory physics to take good notes. It provides survival instructions for the next generation. Energetic therapies advise the DNA in real life, using frequencies, and result in rapid healing.

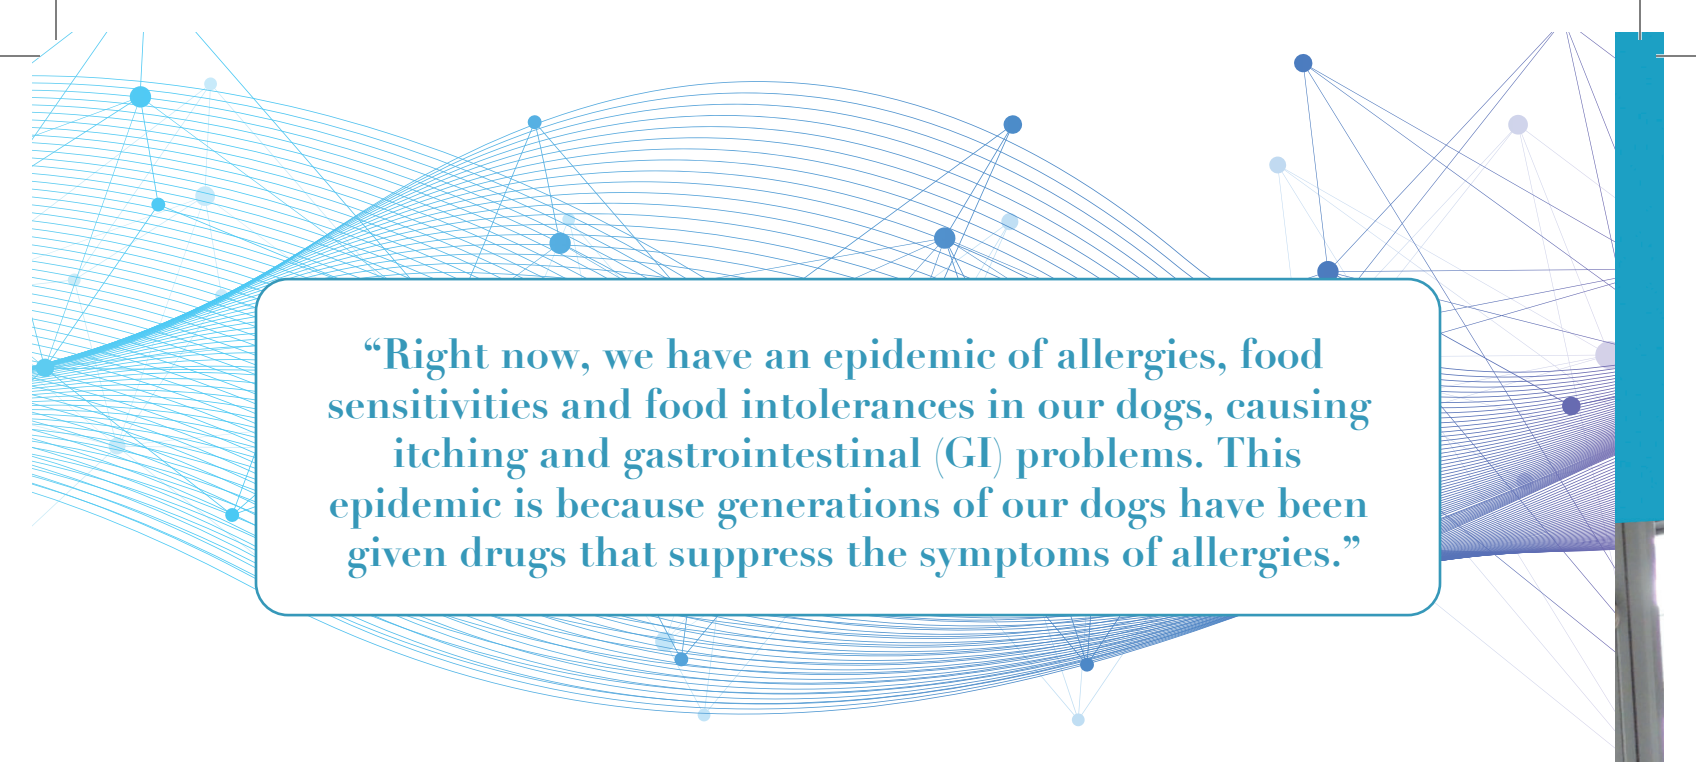

Conversely, many conventional pharmaceutical drugs work to suppress the body's ability to heal and confuse the inherent intelligence present in every living being. The innate knowledge of the DNA is distorted, damaged and corrupted. Right now, we have an epidemic of allergies, food sensitivities and food intolerances in our dogs, causing itching and gastrointestinal (GI) problems. This epidemic is because generations of our dogs have been given drugs that suppress the symptoms of allergies. Each successive conventional drug is – if even possible – more frightening than the last. I shudder to think of what we'll see ten years from now from the widespread use of Apoquel (Oclacitinib maleate) for allergies in our dogs.

Simon Gregory, an associate professor of medical genetics and codirector of the Duke Epigenetics and Epigenomics Program wrote in Duke Magazine's Winter 2019 issue:

"Environmental factors such as food, drugs, or exposure to toxins can cause epigenetic changes by altering the way molecules bind to DNA or changing the structure of proteins that DNA wraps around. These structural changes can change gene activity; they also can produce more dramatic changes by switching genes on when they should be off or vice versa."

According to Gregory, these changes are heritable, meaning they can be passed on from parent cell to daughter cell within the body, and from parent to child.

“Right now, we have an epidemic of allergies, food sensitivities and food intolerances in our dogs, causing itching and gastrointestinal (GI) problems. This epidemic is because generations of our dogs have been given drugs that suppress the symptoms of allergies.”

Because conventional drugs alter dogs' DNA, each successive generation suffers more from allergies. I've had a special interest in allergies in my practice. Ten or 20 years ago, it was unheard of to examine a three-month old puppy suffering from this kind of problem. But, since the introduction of Apoquel, it's not uncommon at all. And no one thinks twice about using this drug because they don't know how it really works. They don't know how many cases of cancer erupt just months after starting it.

Conventional dog breeders must love it. They can guarantee that no surprise hot spot will prevent their entry at the dog show from getting their title. And then [drum roll] ... they breed the dog. Voilà – a young puppy with allergies.

This has to stop. We have to use Quantum physics to clear up allergies and sensitivities in our dogs ... and not these drugs that are paving the road to some sort of future canine allergy hell on Earth. The thing is, once upon a time, due to serendipity, this cure was discovered.

ENERGY HEALING FOR ALLERGIES

The allergy elimination technique that I use with pets originated with a woman needing her own acupuncture points as she passed out during an allergic reaction, only to wake up feeling serene and no longer allergic to the substance. It seemed that having the allergen near or on the body and opening the acupuncture meridians had the effect of re-educating the body's reaction to the substance. She went on to perfect the procedure.

IS IT REALLY AN ALLERGY?

Allergies present typically as itching and GI problems (often diagnosed as IBD). We also see food sensitivities and intolerances. These are actually 15 times more common than bona fide allergies; they have a delayed reaction of seven to 30 days. All of this can result in a lot of stress and confusion about what your dog can really eat.

But ... what if he could eat anything because his untoward reaction to certain foods has been energetically corrected?

Once more, we're dealing with resonances and with DNA. Again, DNA is a receiver and a transmitter and can revise misinformation once it's given accurate directions energetically. You see, with allergies, the immune system is misbehaving by reacting to substances that should be innocuous. With the allergy elimination technique, pure electromagnetic resonance corrects the unhealthy programming of the immune system.

I became certified in the original allergy elimination program almost 30 years ago. I lectured at the AHVMA (American Holistic Veterinary Medical Association) conference in 1998. The success rate of this treatment for allergies, including IBD, was remarkable and I was eager to share the news. Since then, I've modeled a program specifically for pets, called Allergy Elimination 4 Pets. Many doctors and chiropractors expanded on the initial protocol, but it was always designed for people, who have very different needs from dogs.

An allergic reaction, sensitivity or intolerance, begins with an energetic recognition of the offending substance. Correcting the body energy so it recognizes this substance as harmless, simply eliminates the untoward response. Why does the child with the peanut allergy have such an extreme response to a peanut when all his friends are eating peanut candies for Halloween? Is it the peanut or the incorrect response? It is, in fact, an exaggerated incorrect response – that is first noted energetically – before it moves into the chemical realm.

It's time we started to think more about Quantum theory healing, because every single generation of dogs born to dog moms treated with Apoquel will have the DNA they inherit corrupted by this drug. Allergies will occur at younger and younger ages and will become less responsive to any treatment.

We're supposed to enjoy our companions, rather than constantly change their food, worry every day and run to the veterinarian's office every month. I fully believe that energy medicine can correct DNA, just as homeopathy can correct inherited problems as well as the tendency to pass on that problem to future generations. It's time for us to change the way we approach the allergies, sensitivities and intolerances that all too many of our best friends suffer with. 🐾
